

ABSTRACT

The invention features a method of inhibiting formation of atherosclerotic lesions by administering to a mammal, e.g., a human patient who has been identified as suffering from or at risk of developing atherosclerosis, a compound that reduces expression or activity of AFABP.

20026173.doc

09603596-067